Reading and Interpreting Your Report

The feedback in this report reflects the aggregated results for the group members who participated in the 360 process. It provides an invaluable opportunity for the group to celebrate its collective strengths and to create action plans to address their development opportunities.

This report also provides a series of benchmarks which can be used to make meaningful comparisons. The group can reflect on the global group averages and item rankings contained within the report to see how they compare to group from a variety of industries and sectors. Individuals may also use their individual Hogan 360 report to compare their own results to their group's results.

Leadership Competencies

Each of the questions in the previous section is linked to one of the four leadership quadrants.

Self-Management refers to personal awareness, self-regulation, stress management, resilience, transparency and authenticity. It describes the process of managing one's emotions maturely to achieve the best outcomes. It may require positive self-talk and recovery periods to fuel peak performance in turbulent times and avoiding burn out. Successful self-management requires management of yourself and taking care of your brand and reputation.

Relationship Management refers to the ability to achieve better results through better relationships. It is about getting along with others in order to get ahead. It can involve the ability to build trusting, loyal relationships with stakeholders to support retention and performance. Successful relationship management requires recognition that your own level of performance relies on the performance of your team, which in turn relies on their engagement.

Working in the Business refers to having the experience, capability and efficiency to consistently deliver great results. It requires having the energy, passion and competitive drive to stay in the performance zone. Success in this area can involve smarter prioritisation of work, more delegation, better time management and more effective goal setting. It is about achieving service and operational excellence in a timely, efficient manner.

Working on the Business refers to adding extra value through innovation and strategic planning and building motivated, accountable teams. Success in this area can involve long-term planning to achieve competitive advantage and delivering results through high-performing cultures. Leading change requires spending more time on the business, having a planning cycle, conducting regular planning reviews and challenging poor performers.

Competency Combinations

Your combined scores for Self-Management and Relationship Management form a Behavioural Competencies score. Similarly, the combined scores for Working in the Business and Working on the Business form the Business Competencies score.

Behavioural Competencies 5.9

The Behavioural Competencies combination describes the use of emotional intelligence (EQ) to professionally manage oneself and relate appropriately to others to get the best outcomes from teams and stakeholders. High scorers typically demonstrate emotional resilience and strong interpersonal skills to improve results through better relationships. It requires stable, sustainable relationships to stay in the performance zone and avoid derailment.

Business Competencies 5.9

The Business Competencies combination describes the use of cognitive capability (IQ) to get the right balance between working in (operational) and on (strategic) the business to optimise day-to-day and longer-term results. High scorers typically demonstrate both the technical ability to deliver service and operational excellence as well as strategic insight to drive the bigger picture. It requires a strategic focus to deliver great results through high-performing cultures.

Competency Combinations

Your combined scores for Self-Management and Working in the Business form a Management Competencies score. Similarly, the combined scores for Relationship Management and Working on the Business form a Leadership Competencies Score.

Management Competencies 6.0

The Management Competencies combination describes the world of the day-to-day manager where integrity and resilience are required to maximise capability, efficiency and positivity to deliver sound results. High scorers typically achieve service and operational excellence in a timely and efficient manner and are held accountable for performance by measurement.

Leadership Competencies 5.8

The Leadership Competencies combination describes the bigger-picture world of the leader who makes time to create stakeholder engagement around strategic goals. High scorers typically build trusting, loyal relationships and motivate others to achieve the strategic agenda. It is about partnerships delivering innovation and peak performance.

Self-Management

The table below contains the standard deviations and frequency distributions by rater group for each of the 50 items. A standard deviation indicates that, given a normal distribution of ratings, 68% of raters gave a rating in the range bounded by the SD value above and below the mean for that item. For example, with Mean 5.9 and SD 1.1, 68% of raters in a normal distribution scored between 4.8 and 7.0. The columns below the numbers 1 to 7 and N/A contain the number of times the indicated rating scale number was selected by each rater group, per item.

Appendix II

Rater Frequency by Strengths and Opportunities

Raters were asked to choose the top four strengths and opportunities from the lists below. The top selection per rater was given a weight of 4, the second a weight of 3, the third a weight of 2 and the fourth of 1. The total score in the right column is the sum of the scores. The totals in the columns labelled 1- 4 count the number of times each item was given that weight.
